President's Message

Dear Shomrim Sisters and Brothers:

Rosh Hashanah brings with it a new year and a special time for us to take out from our usual activities and contemplate our lives and the lives we live. Together with Yom Kippur, Judaism affords us this time to seriously contemplate what is important to our community, our family and ourselves. We get time to ask ourselves whether we are worthy of the life that God has given us and how we can better ourselves going forward. It is the time to reflect and recognize past wrongs that we have committed against others and do our best to make them right. In short, it is a time to clear our minds of trivial things and devote our thoughts to what is important, honorable and right and how we can be better people. It is a special gift to be afforded this period of time to reflect upon who we are, how we got to this point in our lives and how we can be better people going forward. On behalf of Shomrim and its officers, please accept my best wishes and regards to you and your family in the new year.

CHAPLAIN'S HOLIDAY MESSAGE

As we enter the Jewish New Year of 5774 let us hope and pray for health and tranquility for our families, the communities in which we live and serve, for our armed forces both near and far, for our beloved country and the entire world. The High Holy Days, as the name implies is a solemn period whose purpose is sacred, a time of profound introspection and resolve. A time when we must reflect on the good deeds, our misfortunes, and to accept responsibility for our wrong doings over the past year. This a time when we and G-d determine what our future will be, to reaffirm our dreams, ideals, hopes and visions for the future.

We pray that the beginning of the New Year, all of G-d's children everywhere will step through the portal of a bright and happy tomorrow. May the days ahead be for all of us the realization to speak gently, to live honorably and act justly. May we forge our link with eternity through the justice of our deeds and the sensitivity of our souls.

May our every word and thought be an act of holiness within the sanctity of time. On behalf of my dear wife Norma , our children and grandchildren, we wish all of our members and your dear families a Healthy, Happy and Sweet year.

Chaplain Alan Edwards
